Proudly brought to Perth for this exclusive seminar by the Western Australian Primary Principals' Association and the School Psychologists' Association of Western Australia.

About this seminar

In this seminar Professor Seligman will detail inspiring examples of Positive Psychology, Interventions and Education in action.

Professor Seligman has been at the cutting edge of psychological research for over four decades, including the neuropsychological basis for improving people's lives. Now he offers his powerful insights into personal satisfaction and global purpose.

Building upon his previous work on flourishing, learned optimism, and motivation, Professor Seligman will discuss the implications of contemporary research into imagination, creativity and healthy societies.

Professor Seligman will also make a compelling and deeply personal case for the importance of virtues like hope, gratitude, and wisdom for mental health and the future of humanity.

A tour of recent history and implications for psychology, education and future thinking will inspire you.

This is an opportunity for all of us to consider the building blocks for a thriving and flourishing society.

This half day seminar will not only educate but be deeply enriching with a potentially life changing effect.

"I attended the previous Martin Seligman seminar with my principal. It changed the course of my life personally and professionally. The school adopted resiliency curriculum and positive education principles for the whole community. It inspired me to lead state-wide initiatives in positive psychology and education, including post graduate research. I strongly recommend school leaders and school psychologists attend this seminar together to support positive change." – School Psychologist

About Professor Martin E.P. Seligman (PhD)

Considered the founder of Positive Psychology, Martin Seligman is a world authority on resilience, optimism and the prevention of depression, as well as the factors that allow individuals and communities to flourish.

Professor Seligman is the Zellerbach Family Professor of Psychology and Director of the Positive Psychology Center at the University of Pennsylvania, USA and is a former President of the American Psychological Association (APA). His mission to

His game-changing work has involved him in worldwide groundbreaking initiatives with educators, psychologists, researchers, the military, philanthropists, large organisations, spiritual leaders and health professionals in ways to improve personal wellbeing, workplace culture and ways to flourish as a society.

He is the bestselling author of thirty books including Flourish, The Optimistic Child, Learned Optimism, Authentic Happiness, Character Strengths and Virtues, Positive Psychology in Practice and now the latest widely-acclaimed The Hope Circuit.

His work is supported by a team of researchers and funded by bodies such as the National Institute of Mental Health and National Science Foundation. These include investigations into the neuro science of well-being, resilience, virtues, elements to a meaningful life, futuristic, prospective psychology, the importance of creativity and imagination and positive psychotherapy.

Martin Seligman continues to have a powerful, positive effect on individuals and societies. This seminar on Positive Psychology, Positive Interventions and Positive Education is likely to have a powerful effect on you as an individual, professional and for our community.
